Dear Resident,

As our refurbishment works have neared completion not surprisingly the buildings have attracted quite a lot of interest and we have had a number of unsolicited offers from investment companies none of which have been accepted. However, given this interest we have asked our property agent to discuss with reputable companies their interest in purchasing the Charity's residential portfolio and a number of interested parties have been formally invited to view some of the flats.

If the Charity does decide to sell any or all of its residential blocks we will clearly keep all the residents informed and any change of ownership should not affect the terms of your individual tenancy agreements.

I understand that a number of residents have had people knock at their doors without an appointment and I am very sorry that this has happened. We have not sold any of the blocks of flats and whoever these people are they had no right or authority to even knock on your door and if this happens again then please try and get the persons name and contact Genesis and we will deal with the matter immediately.

If the position changes I will get in contact with you immediately.

Please accept my apologies on behalf of the Charity for any inconvenience this may have caused.

Yours sincerely
